How to Make a Million Dollars Playing the Guitar

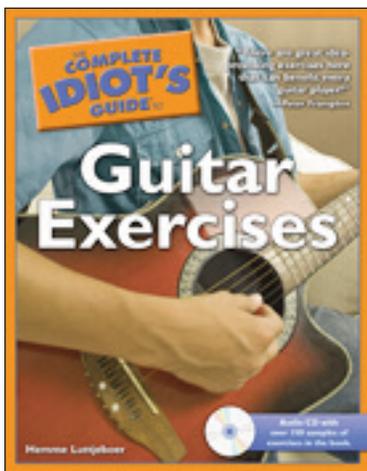

stand themselves and their commitment to music. Once that is established, the principles in the book can be applied in a successful manner.

Topics in the book include having a mission in life, learning from failure, mental attitude, business procedures, internet sales, home recording, taxes, booking gigs, and more. If you've made the decision to make the guitar your life's work, or you're considering this path, How to Make a Million Dollars Playing the Guitar is a must have. www.milliondollarguitarist.com

For years those in the know have admired Doug Niedt as one of the finest guitarists in the history of the instrument. Now to the surprise and good fortune of many, he has authored How to Make a Million Dollars Playing the Guitar.

While making a million dollars is certainly a theme of the book, it's much more than that. Armed with his own experience of over thirty years, as well as four years of research, Doug has compiled a book filled with the wisdom of a seasoned pro—he asks the reader to not only understand their goals but to truly understand

Hemme Luttjeboer The Complete Idiot's Guide to Guitar Exercises

As a transcriber, Hemme Luttjeboer has worked on 250 books for artists such as Eric Clapton, Vince Gill, B.B. King, Jeff Beck and Jimmy Page, Eric Johnson, and many more. Hemme is also an accomplished player in his own right. His work has appeared in magazines such as Guitar Player, Guitar World and Fingerstyle Guitar.

Hemme has now stepped out as an author with The Complete Idiot's Guide to Guitar Exercises. While the book is not for the virtuoso player, don't let the title fool you. The book not only introduces the beginner to the basic skills of the guitar, but it progresses into areas such as the harmonized scale, chord inversions, rhythmic patterns, major, melodic minor, harmonic minor, pentatonic, arpeggios, picking technique, and much more. The 264-page book contains over 150 written examples and a CD with 91 audio examples.

We highly recommend this book for students new to the guitar. www.musiconpaper.com

Martin Taylor/Spirit of Django Last Train to Hauteville

As a child, Martin Taylor grew up hearing his father's recording of Django Reinhardt and Stephane Grappelli. As early as age three, Martin was attempting to play along with his little ukulele. Little did anyone know that twenty years later he would start an eleven-year journey playing and recording with Stephane Grappelli.

In 2004 Martin bought a 17th century home in France as a retreat when not touring. This second home became a place to enjoy food, friends, and laughter. It also served as a source of inspiration where
